

THE JOSEPHITES.

A couple of Josephite preachers have been holding forth on the street just in front of the Court house for a week or more. It is a peculiar propaganda that they present in that it is destructive rather than creative. They satisfy themselves in representing the Utah Mormons as apostates without giving much idea of their own position. That they are not always listened to quietly and courteously cannot be wondered at; in proselyting it is a bad practice to attempt to tear down the houses of the people without first preparing something better to offer them.
