

RULES FOR SUCCESS

To be able to carry money without spending it.

To bear an injustice without retaliating.

To be able to do ones duty when not watched.

To be able to make use of criticism.

To be able to keep at a job until finished.

Seeing wealth without coveting it.

Seeing happiness without envying the happy.

Seeing rejoicing without sneering at the joyfull.

Seeing honor without being cynical.

Being insulted without retaliating.

Being ignored without worrying, that is self mastery.

We should study good men more and envy them less.

Man is not hurt so much by what happens, but by his opinion of what happens.

C. E. Kingston