

Financial Empire Passes to Kingston's Children — Tax Free

Before John Ortell Kingston died, in 1987, he passed title to more than 60 parcels of commercial property, homes and land in Salt Lake, Davis and Carbon counties to corporations in which his children were officers. Kingston left his remaining estate, estimated at $70 million, to the Latter Day Church of Christ in Salt Lake City — free of any probate taxes. Nothing was set aside for the eight grown children from Kingston's legal wife, but none filed a claim for a share of the fortune their father conveyed to the church. However, all eight* became leaders in the church, which has access to Kingston's estate.

John Ortell Kingston

Here's How Kingston Kept the Estate in Family Hands

1980s

Before his death, Kingston conveys his assets to a number of companies.

Among the Kingston assets is Mountain Coin, a machine distributor in Las Vegas**

1987

After his death, Kingston's remaining fortune goes to the church.

Kingston Family Has Access to Fortune Through Board Membership and Church Leadership

Some photos are from high school yearbooks.

Joseph, 48

Officer or director for:

- Spectrum Inc.
- Security Alarms
- Fidelity Funding Co.
- COP Coal Development Co.
- American Digital

Ruth Brown, 44

Officer or director for:

- Fidelity Factoring
- NBM Corp.

John, 43

Officer or director for:

- MBA graduate
- Accountant
- Officer or director for:
  - American Digital
  - Coalt Inc. (landholding company for Kingston's property)
  - COP Coal Development Co.

Hyrum, 40

Agent and officer for:

- HK Engineering

Paul, 38

Leader of church

- Accountant
- Officer or director for:
  - MSC Inc.
  - SPMC Inc.
  - NUR Inc.
  - Security Investment Corp.
  - NUB Corp.
  - PPMC Inc.

Rachel Young, 37

Officer or director for:

- World Enterprises (landholding company for Kingston's property)
- Mountain Coin Machine Distributors

David, 32

Officer or director for:

- Accountant
- Officer or director for:
  - NPMC Inc.
  - NUR Inc.
  - ABM Inc.
  - National Business Management Inc.

Jessie, 31

Officer or director for:

- SIC Inc. (A Nevada firm with offices in Utah)

*Jason, 23, another of the children, was a minor when his father died.

**This is also the address for Latter Day Church of Christ in Nevada.