1. Abraham, the second Bishop of the Fourteenth Ward, Salt Lake City, Utah, born March 24, 1797, in the town of Hillsboro, Somerset county, New Jersey, the son of Lucas and Mary B.
Hoagland. He was baptized March 31, 1841, by Elder Asaph Blanchard, migrated to Nauvoo, Illinois, and was ordained an Elder under the hands of the Prophet Joseph Smith. In 1846 he was driven away from Nauvoo in the general exodus of the Saints, and, by direction of President Brigham Young he was ordained a Bishop under the hands of Elders Orson Pratt and Wilford Woodruff, and set apart to preside over the Eleventh Ward of Winter Quarters, when that place was founded as a temporary abiding place for the Saints in September, 1846. In 1847 he migrated to Great Salt Lake Valley, where he resided the remainder of his days. When the people moved out of the forts, and G. S. L. City in 1849 was organized into Wards, he was chosen as a counselor to Bishop John Murdock of the Fourteenth Ward. The latter was elected as a missionary and left for Australia early in the spring of 1851, and Abraham Hoagland was then chosen as Bishop of the Fourteenth Ward, being ordained July 13, 1851. From that time till his death Brother Hoagland acted as Bishop of the Fourteenth Ward, enjoying to a remarkable extent the love and confidence of the people to whom he was a kind and affectionate father and leader. He died in Salt Lake City, February 14, 1872. Bishop Hoagland married four wives. His first wife was Margaret Quick, his second wife Agnes Taylor, his third wife Hester Looze and his fourth wife Rebecca Merrill, an English girl. He had children by all his wives.

time March 13, 1846; this time he took Sarah Zueftl to wife and left Nauvoo soon afterwards for the West; two of his sons, Orice and John, were called into the Mormon Battalion. He emigrated to Salt Lake Valley in 1847, arriving on the site of Salt Lake City Sept. 24, 1847. Here he acted as a High Councilor and he was set apart as Bishop of the 14th Ward Feb. 14, 1849. In December, 1849, he took his seat in the legislative body for the State of Deseret and acted as such and as Bishop till Feb. 6, 1851, when he resigned to go on a mission to the Pacific Islands. He traveled with Parley P. Pratt to the Pacific coast, starting on this mission from Salt Lake City March 12, 1851, with others and traveled to San Francisco; he was then called by Apostle Parley P. Pratt to open up a mission in Australia. Together with Charles W. Wendell he landed at Sydney, Australia Oct. 30, 1851, as the first Latter-day Saint missionaries to that land and Bro. Murdock labored in Australia till June 2, 1852, when he left for home, leaving Elder Wendell to preside. On his return to Utah he found his family at Lehi, Utah county, and at the April conference, 1854, the Saints voted for his ordination to the office of a Patriarch. At Lehi he presided over the High Priests and filled other important positions. In his last days he was feeble and lived with his children. He received his second anointings June 7, 1857, and died Dec. 23, 1871, at Beaver, Utah.

HOAGLAND, Abraham. Second Bishop of the Fourteenth Ward, Salt Lake City, Utah, was born March 24, 1829, in the town of Hillsboro, Somerset county, New Jersey, the son of Lucas and Mary B. Hoagland. He was baptized March 21, 1841, by Elder Joseph Blanchard, migrated to Nauvoo, Ill., and was ordained an Elder under the hands of the Prophet Joseph Smith. In 1846 he was driven away from Nauvoo in the general exodus of the Saints, and, by direction of Pres. Brigham Young he was ordained a Bishop under the hands of Elders Orson Pratt and Wilford Woodruff, and set apart to preside over the Eleventh Ward of Winter Quarters, when that place was founded as a temporary abiding place for the Saints in Setember, 1846. In 1847 he migrated to Great Salt Lake Valley, where he resided the remainder of his days. When the people moved out of the fort, and G. S. L. City in 1849 was organized into Wards, he was chosen as a counselor to Bishop John Murdock of the Fourteenth Ward.

The latter was elected as a missionary and left for Australia early in the spring of 1851, and Abraham Hoagland was then chosen as Bishop of the Fourteenth Ward, being ordained July 13, 1851. From that time till his death Bro. Hoagland acted as Bishop of the Fourteenth Ward, enjoying to a remarkable extent the love and confidence of the people to whom he was a kind and affectionate father and leader. He died in Salt Lake City, Feb. 14, 1872. Bishop Hoagland married four wives. His first wife was Margaret Quick, his second wife Anna Taylor, his third wife Hester Loose and his fourth wife Rebecca Merrill, an English girl. He had children by all his wives.

HOAGLAND, John, a Utah pioneer, born May 22, 1833, at Detroit, Michigan, the son of Bishop Abraham Hoagland and Margaret Quick. He was with his parents during their exodus from Nauvoo, Ill., and in their temporary sojourn on the frontiers and came to G. S. L. Valley and the East against the Indians, acting as lieutenant in Capt. Lot Smith's company. In 1866-1869 he filled a mission to Switzerland, during which time he became a fluent speaker in the German language and returned home in charge of a large company of Swiss and German Saints. After his return from that mission he became the owner of the Ogden House, the first large hotel in Ogden. In 1872 he moved to Salt Lake City and engaged in farming, teaming and contracting. Before the advent of the railroad to Park City he took the contract of delivering all the water piping for Park City's first water works. Bro. Hoagland died in Salt Lake City Sept. 3, 1893; he held the office of a Seventy at the time of his demise.

HOAGLAND, Louis Gerald, Bishop of the Twenty-sixth Ward, Salt Lake City, from 1901 to 1905, was born March 30, 1870, at Ogden, Utah, the son of John Hoagland and Adelia M. West. He removed to Salt Lake City with his parents when two years old, was baptized in the "Old Endowment House", on the Temple square in 1877, and confirmed by Bishop Thos. Taylor, of the Fourteenth Ward. He attended the Fourteenth Ward school.
