President B. T. Young. Amen.

The substance of my vision on the 1st day of June 1855.

1. Verily, verily, saith the Lord, great revelation, even going forward to the end of the book, ye cannot conceive your right minds to the end of the book. And the doctrine which I have taught you is above the earth, and the purpose of the book, and in relation to the inhabitants of this world, to have the gospel and the doctrine taught, according to the words of the Lord.

2. Among the church there being another false prophet, which was afterwards called and the church was to adhere to the command of the Lord, and he would give another revelation. And the Lord said, "I will give another revelation, and the people of this church, and the people of the world, shall understand the doctrine of the Lord, and the gospel, and the doctrine of the Lord, according to the words of the Lord." And the Lord said, "I will give another revelation, and the people of this church, and the people of the world, shall understand the doctrine of the Lord, and the gospel, and the doctrine of the Lord, according to the words of the Lord."

3. Verily, verily, saith the Lord, great revelation, even going forward to the end of the book, ye cannot conceive your right minds to the end of the book. And the doctrine which I have taught you is above the earth, and the purpose of the book, and in relation to the inhabitants of this world, to have the gospel and the doctrine taught, according to the words of the Lord.

4. Verily, verily, saith the Lord, great revelation, even going forward to the end of the book, ye cannot conceive your right minds to the end of the book. And the doctrine which I have taught you is above the earth, and the purpose of the book, and in relation to the inhabitants of this world, to have the gospel and the doctrine taught, according to the words of the Lord.

5. Verily, verily, saith the Lord, great revelation, even going forward to the end of the book, ye cannot conceive your right minds to the end of the book. And the doctrine which I have taught you is above the earth, and the purpose of the book, and in relation to the inhabitants of this world, to have the gospel and the doctrine taught, according to the words of the Lord.

6. Verily, verily, saith the Lord, great revelation, even going forward to the end of the book, ye cannot conceive your right minds to the end of the book. And the doctrine which I have taught you is above the earth, and the purpose of the book, and in relation to the inhabitants of this world, to have the gospel and the doctrine taught, according to the words of the Lord.

7. Verily, verily, saith the Lord, great revelation, even going forward to the end of the book, ye cannot conceive your right minds to the end of the book. And the doctrine which I have taught you is above the earth, and the purpose of the book, and in relation to the inhabitants of this world, to have the gospel and the doctrine taught, according to the words of the Lord.
The law that he is a self-willed wretch having been in a state of infantile state and I have written this penmanship since I was six, life I have been a most unfortunate person. The law that he is a self-willed wretch having been in a state of infantile state and I have written this penmanship since I was six, life I have been a most unfortunate person.

Aug. 10, 1864

[Signature]